If you can dream and not make dreams your master :		with loughter when she found us soon
If you can think and not make thoughts your aim:		Each laid on other a staying hand if you can meet with triumph and disaster:		To listen ere we dared to look
And treat those two impostors just the same:		And in the hush we joined to make
If you can force your heart, and nerve, and sinew		We heard, we knew we heard the brook.
